To Our Fathers

In his letter to men, Into the Breach, the Most Reverend Thomas Olmsted, Bishop of Phoenix calls men to the fullness of fatherhood. He says, All men are called to fatherhood in some way: Becoming mothers and fathers really means to be fully realized, because it is to become similar to God...all the baptized, even though in a different way, are called to be a father or mother.

Bishop Olmsted states that fatherhood is under attack in modern society. The key to interpreting reality [...] original sin, then, attempts to abolish fatherhood...to remove reliance upon God. Then he says that a father's presence and mission in the family is irreplaceable! Step up and lovingly, patiently take up your God-given role as protector, provider, and spiritual leader of your home. A father's role as a spiritual head of the family must never be understood or undertaken as domination over others, but only as a loving leadership and a gentle guidance for those in [one's] care. Your fatherhood, my fatherhood, in its hidden, humble way, reflects imperfectly but surely the Fatherhood of God, the Father to those whom the Lord has given us to father.

Finally, Bishop Olmsted asks, What does it mean to "father"? He then goes on to say that Fatherhood is life-giving to others, giving life, giving life...To fully live, all men must be fathers and live out their fatherhood!

No father is perfect, but every father is needed. We praise God our Father who provides for us in all things. And we give thanks and cherish our earthly fathers who brought us into existence and who strive to be life-giving in their fatherhood. They have our affection, respect, and our prayers. May the men in our parish know the blessing of God upon them and the love of their families on this Father's Day, and every day.

Grace & Peace,
Fr. Jim Mainzer

The 36th Annual Garage Sale was a huge success thanks to all the many volunteers of St. Jude. To all the many people who donated items for the sale, you are appreciated. The ones who worked tirelessly sorting & pricing & organizing during the long hours of the sale, you were awesome. Great food was provided by many for the workers all week. A special thanks to the men who volunteered their time working with electronics, furniture, sporting items and other items. A thanks to the Knights of Columbus for helping set up and dismantling the tables and cleaning up afterwards. We made a profit of $8,773.82 which helps in assisting the Church. Thank you again for all you did.
